

TRO Exhibit 22

DECLARATION OF DORIS STEWART
Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1746

ORIGINAL

1. My name is Doris Stewart and I reside in Ashland, New Brunswick. The following facts are known to me personally, and if called as a witness, I could and would competently testify thereto.
2. On November 4, 2008, I received a telephone call with an automated recording asking me to press 1 if I wanted a lower interest rate on my credit cards. I pressed 1 and was connected with a Robert Alex who said he was with Mutual Consolidated Savings (MCS).
3. Mr. Alex told me that MCS could save me $2,500 in interest on my credit cards. He did not specify a time period, but I got the impression that I could save this money quickly. I was initially concerned that MCS was not a legitimate company. But Mr. Alex assured me that it was. First, Mr. Alex knew a lot of information about me. He knew my name, ^{DS} address, credit card numbers, and the balances I owed on those cards. Because he had so much personal information about me, I concluded that MCS must be a bank or a credit card company. In my mind, this confirmed Mr. Alex's assurance that MCS was a legitimate company. Secondly, Mr. Alex guaranteed the $2,500 savings or my money back. He told me that it would be cash in my pocket.
4. When I expressed interest in learning more about the MCS service, my call was transferred to a Justin Becosta. Mr. Becosta repeated that MCS would guarantee me $2,500 savings fast by lowering the interest rates on my credit cards, and that it was a legitimate company. Based upon these repeated assertions, I agreed to give the MCS program a try.

5. After agreeing to try the MCS program, I was transferred a third time to a Meighan Bolin. It was Ms. Bolin who first informed me that there would be a cost to the service. She told me that it would cost $690, but that I would realize my savings so quickly that I would barely notice the charge. Ms. Bolin also told me that MCS would guarantee the savings of $2,500. Ms. Bolin asked for my approval to charge my Bank of Montreal (BMO) Mastercard. I authorized the charge because I thought MCS would save me money by lowering my interest rates.

6. Later that day while at my bank, I learned that my BMO Mastercard had been charged $823.35. I was shocked by the amount because I had been told the charge would be $690. The bank representative told me that they thought that the services offered by MCS may be fraudulent, and that I should consider canceling my card to avoid any future surprise charges.

7. Based upon the bank manager's advice, I canceled my BMO credit card. The bank representative I dealt with told me to contact the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) to file a police report.

8. After leaving the bank, I went to the RCMP precinct. I spoke with the clerk at the front desk and he told me that an RCMP officer would get in touch with me.

9. I went home and called MCS at 1-888-786-6201 and explained that I had been told I would be charged $690, but that I was charged $823.25 instead. I asked MCS to cancel my service and refund my money. The MCS representative told me that MCS does not have a cancellation policy, and that they would not refund my money because I had not given them sufficient time to prove that the program would work.

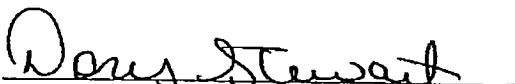

10. Later that day, Ms. Bolin faxed me a MCS Elite Membership form to complete and fax back. A true and correct copy of this form is attached as Exhibit A. The fax asked for my debt profile and for all of my credit card information. The form indicated that MCS needed this information to arrange a 3-way conference call between MCS, my credit card company, and me. Because I thought that the only way I could get my money back from MCS was to try their program, I filled out the form and faxed it back to Ms. Bolin at 1-877-669-9864 that same day. I hoped that the quicker I returned the form, the quicker I could get my money back.

11. The next day, I was contacted by Officer Luc Delifle of the RCMP. Officer Delifle researched MCS, and told me that MCS had received many fraudulent complaints. I met with Officer Delifle in person, and he took my complaint. He personally called MCS on my behalf and tried to persuade them to give me my money back. He also told them not to call me again. Based upon Officer Delifle's call, MCS agreed to give me a 50% refund.

12. ^{DS. knew} ~~I informed~~ the bank that MCS had agreed to refund 1/2 of the charge and the bank provisionally credited me with the remaining balance of the $823.25 charge, pending the outcome of their investigation. My credit card statement shows that $823.25 was credited back to my BMO Mastercard on November 5, 2008. My credit card company ultimately determined that the charge by MCS was indeed fraudulent.

I swear or affirm under penalty of perjury that to the best of my knowledge and belief the foregoing is true and accurate.
